

COMMUNICATION IS THE KEY

Hi...Strataman here,

A healthy Strata Scheme is one where communication is always top of mind. Being kept up to date on the happenings in the scheme ensures that the owners and residents feel included and adds to the sense of belonging. Many schemes are venturing into Facebook and Twitter updates. Some larger schemes also have their own websites for communication. It doesn't have to be hi tech – it just needs to happen! A simple notice on the notice board may be all that is needed to make people feel included. Making a positive difference in strata living comes from good communication.
